PRESS RELEASE

IBA Molecular To Promote PET Imaging at NBC5-Chicago Healthy Lifestyle Expo

Sterling, VA, March 13, 2007 – IBA (Ion Beam Applications S.A.) announced today, that its business unit, IBA Molecular, will be promoting PET imaging and its patient-focused website, getaPETscan.com, at the NBC5 Healthy Lifestyle Expo in Chicago, May 15 and 16, 2008.

In 2007, IBA Molecular began an aggressive promotional campaign to educate the general population on PET imaging. Thus far, the company has launched getaPETscan.com, a patient-focused website that contains information on PET imaging for oncology, neurology and cardiology, and lists the PET centers throughout the United States so patients can find a location convenient for them to have the test completed. In addition, they have raised awareness at events such as the Susan G. Komen Race for the Cure and embarked on a Green Ribbon Campaign for PET imaging promotion.

“We are so excited to have the opportunity to partner with NBC5 Chicago for their Healthy Lifestyle Initiative,” commented Michelle Ernsdorff, Vice President of Marketing for IBA Molecular. “We are passionate about educating people on PET imaging and how it can help to diagnose or manage disease. It is such an important diagnostic imaging tool, especially for cancer patients and we believe bringing this information to the community is an obligation of our company.”

The Healthy Lifestyle Expo is a yearly event that is meant for the whole family. It enables the attendees to get health tests and health screenings and educates them on cooking and exercise tips. In addition, they feature many new innovative healthy lifestyle products and services.

“The Healthy Lifestyle Expo is a perfect place to reach those in the Chicagoland area that are concerned about their overall well-being. Our goal is to bring awareness about PET imaging and encourage the expo attendees to pass on the knowledge to their family and friends because it really could make a difference in someone’s life,” Ernsdorff continued.

The NBC5 Healthy Lifestyle Expo is being held at Navy Pier. IBA Molecular and getaPETscan.com can be found in Booth #504 Saturday, March 15th 10:00am to 5:00pm and Sunday, March 16th 11:00am to 4:00pm. For further details, please logon to www.nbc5.com/healthandfitnesssexpo/
